

The UCONN Stamford Faculty Colloquium Series

Wednesday, February 20th, 2008
12:00 noon to 1:00pm in the MPR

Dr. Nehama Aschkenasy

The Bible's Role in Contemporary Israeli Literature & Culture

Dr. Aschkenasy will discuss a field of research that has been a lifelong interest for her: the re-appearance of biblical motifs and paradigms in modern literature. She has published numerous works in this area, including on biblical images in James Joyce's works. She also edited a volume on the Bible's role in Israeli literature and culture, with articles by the foremost scholars in the field, to which she also contributed an article and a methodological Introduction.

Caravaggio, "The Binding of Isaac"

Free Admission ! Lunch Served!

Please RSVP by calling 251-9525
or email: stamfordcjmes@uconn.edu