Five Teak Doors, 1967, Victor Bisharat

These doors are part of a set of 19 doors created for the headquarters of General Time Corporation in High Ridge Park, Stamford. To reflect the global activity of General Time, each door depicts iconic references to different countries or civilizations. The five doors installed here are of the United States, and ancient African, Chinese, Egyptian, and Mayan Civilizations. The designs for the doors were fashioned in the United States and carved by Chinese sculptors in Hong Kong.

Victor Bisharat, the architect for the building, was the designer of the doors. UConn Stamford received this set of five doors on October 19, 1998.
